The duties and responsibilities of a Clinical Psychologist shall include the following:

- Casework with individual clients as well as group sessions with children and young people, from pre-school to post-secondary level of education;
- Provision of support with regards to psychological evaluation, intervention, counselling, therapy, development and implementation of a support plan, and multidisciplinary work, in both special schools and in mainstream ones;
- Working with parents and school staff to ensure a systems approach to the provision of support;
- Providing training to professionals working with children and young people and in-service training for school personnel;
- Contributing towards the development of psychological services within the DES and that of organisations and institutions concerned with children’s welfare;
- Assisting schools in developing in-house pupil-care policies and procedures;
- Providing in a timely manner the necessary reports;
- Contributing towards the effective implementation of the National Minimum Curriculum, so as to ensure the meeting of particular needs and attainment of students;
- Participating in projects, seminars and conferences leading to ongoing professional development and in-house supervision;
- Providing mentoring and supervision to Psychology Assistants attached to the service as required.
- Psychologists who qualify as supervisors by the MPPB are expected to help in providing in-house supervision to fellow psychologists.